

VULTURE

VULTURE PICKS | UPDATED APR. 26, 2021

25 Notable New Releases Over the Next Two Weeks

By Vulture Editors

Art

Beverly Buchanan

The artist's "shack" works.

Before she died at 75, in 2015, Beverly Buchman fashioned a private city from cardboard and found wood, painted in beautiful colors. The structures are those of Jim Crow: old shotgun shacks, tobacco barns, tumbledown homes — places that people cobbled together out of what was at hand, having found ways to not only survive but create a vernacular architecture.

—J.S.

Andrew Edlin Gallery, 212 Bowery, through May 8.